Ratings on how their child is doing since receiving services

Overall satisfaction

Themes from open-ended questions

- Several people observed positive changes in their children such as better behavior, more socially connected
- Families feel supported/helps families have open conversations and address challenges better
- Some found this program helpful with loss and tragedy
- Communication with the family seems to be highly valued. One respondent appreciated being “kept in the loop” while another wanted more communication
- For students not receiving services: child is doing well; on waiting list; has commercial insurance
